

Telepresence

collaborate like never before in high definition

“Telepresence lets us have effective business meetings without leaving our offices. It cuts down on travel time and costs, and that’s great for the bottom line.”

- the ultimate in conferencing, with life-size images so clear that it's the next best thing to being there
- high-definition video and CD-like audio for crispness and clarity of "in person" interaction – you'll forget it's a videoconference
- easy to use with "at the press of a button" meeting initiation
- Cisco-certified TelePresence network with end-to-end accountability for video quality around the world
- consulting, integration services and management for a total solution

Business Services

meet globally, attend locally

Telepresence from Orange offers brilliant visual and sound quality that elevates videoconferencing to a whole new level of personal interaction. Effectively collaborate and increase your competitiveness in a global business environment with faster troubleshooting of business issues, improved productivity of dispersed workgroups and faster time to market. The time saved from not traveling not only increases your effectiveness, but also your quality of life.

relax, it's simple to use

Telepresence is easy to use so you can focus on your agenda, not on the technology, communicating naturally and effectively. Scheduling is easy, too – just send a calendar invitation, and then launch the call with the push of a button.

Whether your group is large or small, Telepresence comfortably accommodates up to 12 participants. Life-size images and remarkable clarity let you see every expression, while the rich, CD-quality audio lets you hear every word. And of course, it's secure and reliable, so you can use it for all your important meetings.
