Orange Cyberdefense joins Microsoft Intelligent Security Association (MISA).

- Orange Cyberdefense announced today the extension of its collaboration with Microsoft to deliver enhanced visibility into customers' IT security.
- Organizations can benefit from this collaboration via Orange Cyberdefense's Managed Detection and Response services based on Microsoft Sentinel.

Paris, Orange Cyberdefense, a European leader in cybersecurity services, today announced it has joined the Microsoft Intelligent Security Association (MISA), an ecosystem of independent software vendors and managed security service providers that have integrated their solutions to better defend against a world of increasing threats.

This collaboration makes it even simpler for customers to better monitor their cloud and hybrid environments and stop threats before they cause damage. Thanks to Orange Cyberdefense's Managed Threat Detection service based on Microsoft Sentinel and complemented with an intelligence-led approach, organizations gain enhanced visibility into their enterprise. This allows them to minimize the risk of compromise.

Orange Cyberdefense's unique threat intelligence with over 500 private and public sources goes beyond Indicators of Compromise, with aggregated data and insights from global operations, ethical hacking and digital risk monitoring teams. Organizations will benefit from reduced pressure from increasingly sophisticated attacks and rising volumes of alerts, allowing them to invest scarce resources where they will have the most impact.

Laurent Célérier, Executive Vice-President Technology & Marketing, Orange Cyberdefense says: "We are very proud to join MISA and work with Microsoft and key players in the cybersecurity ecosystem. Organizations will benefit from shared threat intelligence, enhanced proactive protection and faster response. Orange Cyberdefense's intelligence-led security approach and extensive operations footprint enables us to help protect our customers effectively, wherever they are. Our collaboration with Microsoft furthers our mission to build a safer digital society."
